PART II: STATEMENT OF POLICY

- 5. Purpose - This Determination sets out guiding principles relating to corporate governance in banking institutions and controlling companies. It further regulates the appointment, duties and responsibilities of directors, principal officers, and executive officers of banking institutions and controlling companies. It aims to ensure that only “fit and proper” persons as approved by the Bank are appointed to serve on the boards and run the affairs of banking institutions and controlling companies.
- 6. Scope - This Determination applies to all banking institutions, controlling companies and persons considered for the appointment or re-appointment of directors, principal officers, and executive officers of banking institutions and controlling companies. The Determination must be read in conjunction with the Corporate Governance Code for Namibia (the NamCode).
- 7. Responsibility - banking institutions and controlling companies must ensure that only “fit and proper” persons are nominated and appointed to be directors, principal officers, or executive officers of banking institutions and controlling companies and that the appointed candidates execute their duties and responsibilities as stipulated herein.

PART III: IMPLEMENTATION AND SPECIFIC LIMITATIONS

8. Appointment of Directors, Principal Officers and Executive Officers

8.1 Approval of Appointments: - every banking institution and controlling company must give the Bank written notice of the nomination of any director, principal officer, or executive officer of such bank or controlling company. Upon receiving all the required documentation listed under paragraph 8.1, the Bank must conduct a “fit and proper” assessment guided by the contents of Annexure D, to determine whether the nominated candidate is suitable to hold the position of director, principal officer, or executive officer of a banking institution or controlling company, as the case may be. In determining the fitness and probity of a person to hold the position of director, principal officer, or executive officer due regard must be given to the following:

- a) His/her probity, competence and soundness of judgement in fulfilling the responsibilities of that position;
- b) His/her experience, knowledge and understanding of conducting and managing banking business;

- f) Whether the person has been convicted of a criminal offence;
- g) Whether there are any pending litigations or he/she has been a subject of an investigation or disciplinary hearing.

These interviews are to be conducted at initial licensing stage, but the Bank may also require a new nominee of an existing banking institution or controlling company to be interviewed to determine his/her fitness and probity for a proposed appointment.

- b) The interviews, if so conducted by the Bank, will not replace the interviews by the banking institutions and controlling companies. An appointing banking institution or controlling company should therefore conduct an interview in accordance with its own internal procedures, prior to submitting a notice of nomination for appointment to the Bank.
- c) Interviews for a nominated principal officer, executive officer, or director of an existing banking institution or controlling company will be conducted as part of the fitness and probity assessment by the Bank, after the Bank receives a notice of nomination, and within thirty days prior to the effective date of appointment.

8.4 Additional Criteria for Principal Officers

- a) the sound operation of banking institutions or controlling companies depends critically on its principal officer. The candidate for the principal officer's position must be suitably qualified with appropriate experience and must preferably possess a proven track record in the financial industry.
- b) The following requirements must be observed regarding the appointment and responsibilities of the principal officer: -
 - i. He/she must be a person of high integrity;

- d) In the absence¹ of the principal officer, a banking institution must inform the Bank of the person who will be directly responsible for the overall running of the banking institution during such period. This is necessary for the Bank to consult him on matters of policy and day- to-day operations.

The proposed acting principal officer must be fully acquainted with the affairs of the banking institution, and must be able to act promptly and, with authority, on matters affecting the banking institution. The nominated person must fulfil the fit and probity requirements as stated in paragraph 8.2 above.

- e) The delegation of responsibilities to several persons, with no single person appointed as the coordinator within the banking institution or controlling company, is not permitted.

¹ Absence in this regard would mean a period exceeding 14 working days excluding public holidays and where the Principal Officers may not otherwise be reachable via email or telephonically to attend to urgent matters and policy issues relating to the institution. This may include absence due to annual leave, study leave, extended period of sick leave or extended period of compassionate leave.

8.5 Restrictions on Appointment of Persons

8.5.1 Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provisions, banking institutions and controlling companies must not appoint a director, principal officer, or executive officer if he/she has at any time -

- g) been dismissed, or asked to resign and consequently resigned, from employment or from a position of trust, fiduciary appointment or similar positions, or has ever been disqualified from acting as a director or from acting in any managerial capacity.

8.5.2 Notwithstanding paragraph 8.5.1 above, a person may be disqualified on basis of any other grounds that the Bank may deem significant to impair his/her integrity and ability to discharge of his/her duties.

- a) In determining honesty, integrity and reputation of a person, the Bank may consider, among other considerations, if the person has been investigated or is under investigation for corruption or any crime under the Anti-Corruption Act, 2003 (Act No. 8 of 2003) or Prevention of Organised Crime Act, 2004 (Act No. 29 of 2004) or other similar legislation in another jurisdiction, even where such investigation has not yet been concluded.
- b) If a person is under investigation, such person should not be nominated for appointment as a principal officer, executive officer or director of a banking institution or controlling company until such investigation is completed.

- c) If an existing executive officer or director becomes the subject of an investigation, such banking institution or controlling company must disclose this information to the Bank within seven working days of becoming aware of such investigation. The Bank will assess the matter relating to the investigation on a case-by-case basis, taking into account the seriousness of the allegations, and circumstances surrounding the alleged offence, the explanation offered by the executive officer or director being investigated, and the relevance of the alleged offence to the position occupied.
- 8.5.3 Where a person has previously been convicted of a criminal offence and has since been pardoned or expunged in Namibia or elsewhere, the details of the conviction must be disclosed to the Bank. The Bank may consider such previous conviction in determining the fitness and probity of the person and may disqualify a person from being appointed as a principal officer, executive officer or director of a banking institution or controlling company. Pardoned or reprieved convictions are assessed by the Bank on a case-by-case basis taking into account the seriousness of, and circumstances surrounding, the offence, the explanation offered by the person, the relevance of the offence to the proposed role, the passage of time since the offence was committed and evidence of the person's rehabilitation.
- 8.5.4 A person nominated for appointment as a board member at a banking institution or controlling company, who is a full-time employee, must not serve simultaneously on more than two boards of directors of separate entities, unless an exception has been granted by the Bank on a case-by-case basis, which must be free of any conflict of interest. The two boards of directors do not include the board of a banking institution and controlling company. In this regard, the boards of directors of the controlling company, a banking institution and any subsidiary under the same banking group will be counted as one board.
- 8.5.5 Notwithstanding paragraph 8.5.4 above, retired persons and persons who are not in full time employment may serve on more than two (2) boards, subject to the approval of the Bank.
- 8.5.6 For the purpose of paragraph 8.5.4 above, a board of director excludes the boards of directors of non-profit making organizations, religious organisations, customary community-based committees, family-owned businesses, and educational institutions on which a prospective board member is serving.

8.6 Alternate Directors

- a) Directors of banking institutions or controlling companies may not appoint alternate directors as they are expected to be personally committed to the board in directing the management of the banking institution or controlling companies. This is based on the premise that an alternate, in his capacity as a proxy for a director, may not be able to contribute effectively to the deliberations of the board.
- b) Notwithstanding paragraph 8.7 (a) above, Directors who are not Namibian residents are permitted to appoint alternates, on good cause shown, provided that a "fit and proper" test is conducted in the same manner as for prospective directors prior to such appointment.

- c) Directors must attend at least 75% of board meetings per annum, unless prior exemption of the Bank is obtained for valid reason(s), to avoid abusing the use of alternate directors.

8.7 Practicing Lawyers and Accountants

- a) To enable banking institutions and controlling companies to tap the expertise of lawyers and accountants, practicing lawyers and accountants may be appointed as directors of a banking institution or controlling company, provided they are not employed by or must not be partners in a legal firm, which is on the panel of lawyers of that particular banking institution or controlling companies. Similarly, practicing accountants may be directors provided they are not employed by or are not partners in an accounting firm which is engaged to conduct the audit of or consultancy work for that particular banking institution or controlling company.
- b) The practicing lawyers and accountants who are appointed as directors of banking institutions and/or controlling companies must exercise the highest degree of integrity and professionalism. They must be mindful of the need to avoid being involved or seen to be involved in any self-serving practices and conflict of interest situations in the conduct of their profession while serving as directors of a banking institution or controlling company.

8.8 Service Providers

Owners of companies that provide services to a banking institution or controlling company should only be appointed as directors of a banking institution or controlling company once their level of influence on the concerned banking institution or controlling company has been assessed by the Bank.

8.9 Politically Exposed Persons (PEPs)

- a) Due to their position and influence, it is recognised that PEPs are in positions that can potentially be abused for personal gain or other interests. In this regard, individuals who are entrusted with prominent public functions and who hold or held positions of influence must be subjected to enhanced due diligence, prior to and during their tenure as directors of a banking institution or controlling company.
- b) In addition to the fitness and probity requirements stipulated in paragraph 8.2, a PEP will be subjected to the following enhanced due diligence requirements:
 - i. Reasonable measures to establish the source of wealth and the source of funds:
 - aa. The source of wealth refers to the origin of the PEP's entire body of wealth (i.e., total assets). This information will usually give an indication as to the volume of wealth the PEP would be expected to have, and a picture of how the PEP acquired such wealth.

- bb. The source of funds refers to the origin of the funds or other assets. Thus, the Bank will assess the PEP's current employment, as well as their business ownership and connections, to determine whether such funds were not obtained through corruption, bribery, money laundering activities, fraud or any other illicit sources of income. Sufficient background check on banking transactions must be conducted to establish the legitimacy of such transactions and the sources of funds. The information obtained on the sources of funds must be substantive and establish a provenance or reason for having been acquired.
 - cc. A PEP who has business interests which are related to his/her public functions will be considered to have conflict of interest. Accordingly, such PEP is high risk.
 - dd. A PEP who attempts to shield their identity and uses corporate vehicles such as legal entities and legal arrangements to obscure the beneficial owner is high risk.
 - ee. A PEP who is from a country which has been identified by the Financial Action Task Force, the United Nations and any other international body to which Namibia is a member of, as having strategic Anti Money Laundering and Counter Financing (AML/CTF) of Terrorism regime deficiencies or is known to have a high level of corruption is high risk. Thus, a PEP's level of public function must be assessed to determine his involvement in corruption and AML/CTF activities.
- c) The Bank may approve for appointment a PEP who has passed all the criteria listed under paragraph 8.9(b)(i) above. Approval may be granted subject to further conditions as may deemed necessary.
- d) Ongoing enhanced monitoring of the business activities of a PEP
- i. A PEP who has passed the fitness and Probity test, and who has passed the enhanced due diligence must be subjected to an ongoing monitoring of his business activities relative to his position of influence throughout the tenure as a director of a banking institution or controlling company.
 - ii. A PEP who has a position of influence in a prominent public function in sectors known to be exposed to high corruption levels, such as the oil and gas, mining, construction of public infrastructure, natural resources, defense, trade and industries may be considered as high risk. Therefore, the Bank must, on an on-going basis, monitor his/her involvement and conduct of business.
 - iii. The Bank, through a written notice to the banking institution or controlling company, may remove a PEP who becomes unfit subsequent to his/her appointment. The written notice comes into effect on the date specified in the notice.

9. Duties and Responsibilities of the Board

In addition to the duties stipulated under section 41(7) of the Act, the board of directors of a banking institution or controlling company shall be responsible for the following: -

- 9.1 Appointment: - select and appoint executive officers who are qualified and competent to administer the affairs of the banking institution or controlling company effectively and soundly. The management team must be professional at all times in carrying out its duties and the board of directors must ensure at all times the effectiveness and competence of their management team.
- 9.2 Supervisory Oversight on Management: - exercise oversight on the affairs of the banking institution or controlling company and be regularly informed of the banking institution and controlling company's financial condition and management policies ensuring that the bank and controlling company are soundly managed. The directors of a banking institution are entrusted with the handling and investment of public funds. Consequently, the supervisory commitment required from them entails a high degree of wisdom, prudence, good business judgement and competence than that of directors of other types of companies. They must commit sufficient time to be fully acquainted with the condition of the business and the direction into which they are steering the banking institution and controlling company to apply immediate remedial measures when the need arises.
- 9.3 Board Meetings: - Although directors may delegate certain authority to executive officers, it is ultimately their responsibility to supervise the banking institution and controlling company to ensure sound management. The board must meet at least once quarterly, to deliberate on the performance of the banking institution and to provide direction and guidance to management.
- 9.4 Objectives, Strategies, Policies, Procedures, and Processes: - provide clear and effective objectives, policies, strategies, and systems within which senior executive officers must operate. These must cover all aspects of operations, including strategic planning, credit policies, administration and control, asset and liability management encompassing the management of liquidity risk, interest rate risk in the banking book, market risk, credit risk, operational risk, accounting system and control, service quality, automation plan, prevention of money laundering, terrorism financing and proliferation financing, profit planning and budgeting, adequacy of capital and human resource development and ensuring compliance with any obligation specified in any applicable laws. Clear lines and limits of authority for all levels of staff must be established.
- 9.5 Internal Audit Department: - set up an effective internal audit department staffed with qualified internal audit resources to perform internal audit functions. To enhance the independence of the internal audit function, the board must ensure that the internal auditors have full access to all records and are given an appropriate standing in the organisation's hierarchy. In this regard, the internal auditors must be placed under the direct authority and supervision of the Audit Committee and must report independently to the said Committee. The Chief Internal Auditor including the Internal Audit Department must have a direct reporting line to the Chairperson of the Audit Committee and his/her performance must be evaluated and rated by the Audit Committee.
- 9.6 Audit Committee: - establish and ensure the effective functioning of an Audit Committee comprising of non-executive directors, in accordance with section 42 of the Act.

- 9.7 Risk Management Committee: - establish and ensure the effective functioning of a Risk Management Committee, which should be responsible for creating a comprehensive risk management process to identify; measure; monitor; evaluate; and control or mitigate all material risks inherent in the banking institution and controlling company. Additionally, the Risk Management Committee must provide oversight on senior management's activities in managing credit, market, liquidity, operational, compliance, investment, reputational, strategic, country and transfer risks and any other risks of the banking institution and controlling company. The committee must ensure that the risk function within the banking institution and controlling company possess sufficient experience and qualification and must have sufficient stature, authority, independence and resources to enable it to carry out its responsibilities.
- 9.8 Compliance: - in line with principle C6-1 of the NamCode, the board must ensure that there is an effective independent compliance function overseeing the management of the bank's compliance risk and approves the banking institution's compliance policy, including a formal document establishing a permanent and effective compliance function. At least once a year, the board or a committee of the board must assess the extent to which the banking institution is managing its compliance function to determine its effectiveness. The results of this assessment must be discussed at the board or committee meeting and necessary action may be taken to enhance effectiveness, where required.

Most importantly, directors are expected to observe and be familiar with banking and other relevant legislation, related regulations, determinations, guidelines, and notices and must exercise due diligence to ensure that these are not violated. Directors may be held accountable for any non-compliance with the provisions of the banking legislation and be removed from office if found to have acted against the interests of depositors and the banking institution.

- 9.9 Social Responsibility: - ensure that the banking institution has a beneficial influence on the economic well-being of the community. Within the framework of sound business practices, directors have a continuing responsibility to the community to provide those banking services and facilities which will be conducive to economic growth and national policy aspirations.
- 9.10 Self-serving Practices and Conflict of Interest: - display the utmost good faith towards the banking institution in their dealings with it or on its behalf. Once their appointments take effect, Directors assume a fiduciary role and must disclose their outside business interests and in particular, avoid making any personal profit, acquiring personal benefit or retaining any commission, bonus or gifts for performing their official function of granting approval to financing arrangements or the use of particular services.

They must also undertake to comply with the lending policies and practices applicable to directors of the bank and controlling company. With regard to credit exposures to directors, banking institutions must comply with the determinations issued by the Bank in terms of section 36 of the Act on exposures to directors, officers with managerial responsibilities, shareholders, etc.

10. Composition of the Board of Directors

10.1 Minimum Number of Directors: - a banking institution must have at least five directors. This is crucial to ensure that an adequate number of directors are always present to provide direction and guidance to the management of the banking institution. In the event that the Memorandum and Articles of Associations (M&A) of a banking institution prohibits the appointment of more than five directors, the M&A must be amended. In other cases, banking institutions are obliged to amend their M&A, as and when convenient, to provide for a minimum of five directors.

To ensure appropriate succession planning, the board should identify a sufficiently broad population of candidates to be nominated as board members. This should consist of a blend of qualified executive, non-executive and independent non-executive members.

10.2 Independent Non-Executive Directors: - in an increasingly complex banking environment, the presence of suitably qualified independent directors can contribute effectively towards achieving the main responsibilities of the board. Independent directors must provide the necessary check and balance on the parties representing the interests of the majority shareholders of the banking institution or controlling company, so as to ensure that interests of minority shareholders and that of the general public are given due consideration in the decision-making process. Independent directors should not be brought in only to be neglected and ignored as this would be tantamount to deceiving the minority shareholders and the public. A banking institution and controlling company must appoint at least two independent non-executive directors on its board.

10.3 Chairperson of the Board: - to achieve appropriate checks and balances, the chairperson of the board of a banking institution or controlling company must be an independent non-executive director, who is free of conflict of interest at appointment or election.

- a) The board must evaluate the independence of the chairperson on an annual basis. Such assessment must be submitted to the Bank 30 days prior to the annual general meeting. In situations where the independence of the chairperson is questionable or impaired, a lead independent non-executive director (LID) should be appointed as a chairperson for as long as the situation exists.
- b) The chairperson of the board of a banking institution and the chairperson of the controlling company may be the same person provided that there is a substantial number of the same directors serving both the banking institution and the controlling company and that the minutes are kept and documented separately.
- c) No substantial shareholder in the banking institution or controlling company may be appointed to be the chairperson or deputy chairperson of the board of that banking institution or controlling company.
- d) Any person who has been employed by the banking institution and/ or the banking institution's controlling company in any executive capacity for the preceding three financial years may not be appointed as a chairperson of the board.
- e) The appointment of a board chairperson should comply with Principle C2-16 of the NamCode which deals with aspects relating to the chairperson of a company.

10.4 Maximum Number of Executive Directors: - a maximum of two executive officers, including the Principal Officer, of a banking institution or controlling company, as the case may be, must serve on the board. In exceptional cases with the prior written consent of the Bank, up to three senior officers may be appointed as directors. This is to ensure that the non-executive and independent non-executive directors, who should form the majority, render the necessary independence to the board from the executive arm of the banking institution or controlling company, and help mitigate any possible conflict of interest between the policy-making process and the day-to-day management of the banking institution and controlling company.

10.5 Board Committees: - the majority of the members of the various board committees shall be non-executive directors. A banking institution or controlling company may choose to establish one single board committee to deal with all key risk areas (audit, risk, compliance, remuneration, information technology, etc.); e.g. Board Audit and Risk Committee. However, the banking institution or controlling company must demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Bank that such single committee will adequately deliver on its mandate in the respective areas. Committees must be chaired by independent non-executive directors.

10.6 Limitation on a term of a Non-Executive Director:

- a) A non-executive director of a banking institution or controlling company may serve for a maximum term of (10) ten years. This limitation shall not apply to an executive director.
- b) Notwithstanding the term of office of (10) ten years, an outgoing director of a banking institution or a controlling company may, with the prior approval of the Bank, be reappointed as a director on the board of that particular banking institution or controlling company, after having observed a cooling off period of two years.
- c) The ten-year period started counting as from September 2020 when this provision was introduced for the first time.

10.7 Notwithstanding the provision of paragraph 10.6, the Bank may grant dispensation for a non-executive director to serve on a board of a banking institution and/or controlling company for a period longer than (10) ten years. In this case, a banking institution and/or controlling company must submit a written application to the Bank 30 days prior to the expiration of the current tenure, clearly indicating reasons why dispensation may be granted. The Bank will assess such application and may grant approval on a case-by-case basis. Approval will only be granted if a banking institution shows commitment to finding a replacement for the existing but retiring director in the near future. Dispensation may not be granted for a period of more than two (2) years.

10.8 Limitation on the age of a Non-Executive Director:

The upper age limit for a non-executive director of a banking institution or a controlling company, including the chairperson of the Board, is limited to 70 years and after attaining the age of 70 years, subject to the Bank's approval, a person may continue serving as a non-executive director for a limited period of time to allow for the necessary transitional arrangements to be effected.

10.9 The board should maintain appropriate records (minutes) of its deliberations and decisions. As a minimum requirement, the meeting minutes must be comprehensive to provide sufficient information on discussions, recommendations made, and resolutions taken by the board. The minutes should be made available to the Bank whenever required.

11. Directorship in Other Companies

Interlocking directorships in any other banking institutions or banking groups are prohibited. The Bank will only allow common directorships for banking institutions and controlling company within the same group. This is in line with the need to avoid conflict of interest situations in the management of two or more banking groups. Consistent with this policy, a person with more than 5% of the total nominal value of all vote bearing shares issued in a banking institution or controlling company in his personal capacity (directly or indirectly) must not be appointed to the board of another banking institution or banking group.

12. Limitation of Executive Officer to hold other Executive Position

12.1 Subject to the prior written approval of the Bank, any executive director (including the principal officer) of a banking institution must not hold any executive position in another company.

12.2 Notwithstanding companies within the same group, and family-owned companies of the principal officer or executive director, are excluded from the restriction in that paragraph. This is consistent with the Bank's requirement for a principal officer and any other executive director to devote his attention and commitment principally to the day-to-day operations of a banking institution.

13. Attendance of Meetings by Non-Executive (including Independent Non-Executive) Directors

Non-executive board members must attend at least 75% of the board meetings of a banking institution or controlling company in any particular year. This is to ensure that they will discharge their duties and responsibilities effectively. At its Annual General Meeting, a banking institution or controlling company must review the suitability of any non-executive director who has failed to comply with this 75% attendance rule without valid reason. A non-executive director who breached the 75% attendance rule without valid reason for two consecutive years must be discharged. Attendance must be disclosed in the annual report.

14. The Role and Reporting Lines of Principal Officer and Executive Officers: -

14.1 The principal officer and executive officers must ensure that the banking institutions activities are consistent with the business strategy, risk tolerance and policies as approved by the Board. The principal officer and executive officers must only act on instructions given by the board of directors of the banking institution or controlling incorporated in Namibia under which they are employed, particularly on matters of strategic nature and importance, including credit decisions.

14.2 Any executive officer, by whatever name described, who is in the direct employment of a banking institution or controlling company incorporated in Namibia and who exercises significant influence within such banking institution or controlling company must administratively and functionally report to the principal officer and the local board of such a banking institution or controlling company in Namibia.

15. Remuneration of Directors, Principal Officers and Executive Officers

The remuneration of the directors, principal officers and executive officers must not be out of line with the nature and size of operations of a banking institution and or controlling company. The directors, principal officer and executive officers must not avail themselves of unreasonably bountiful remuneration, with excessive bonuses and fringe benefits relative to the profits and operations of the banking institution or controlling company. Banking institutions and controlling companies should remunerate directors fairly and responsibly. (Refer to Principle C2 - 25 of the NamCode).

15.1 Effective Governance of Remuneration

The board of directors of banking institutions and controlling companies should exercise good stewardship of their banking institutions' remuneration practices and ensure that remuneration works in harmony with other practices to implement balanced risk postures:

- a) The banking institutions and controlling company's board of directors must actively oversee the organisation's remuneration policies.
- b) The banking institutions and controlling companies' board of directors must monitor and review the remuneration system to ensure the system operates as intended.
- c) Staff engaged in financial and risk control must be independent, have appropriate authority, and be remunerated in a manner that is independent of the business areas they oversee and commensurate with their key role in the banking institution.

15.2 Effective alignment of remuneration with prudent risk taking

A director or executive officer's remuneration should take account of the risks that he/she takes on behalf of the banking institution. Remuneration should take into consideration prospective risks and risk outcomes that are already realised.

- a) Remuneration must be adjusted for all types of risk. Subdued or negative financial performance of the financial institution should generally lead to a considerable contraction of the banking institution's total variable compensation.
- b) Remuneration outcomes must be symmetric with risk outcomes.
- c) Remuneration pay-out schedules must be sensitive to the time horizon of risks.
- d) The Bank may from time-to-time limit variable compensation such as bonuses to a percentage of total net income when it is inconsistent with the maintenance of a sound capital base. Such limitation shall be made in consultation with the banking institutions and must be formally communicated in writing by the Bank.

15.3 Effective supervisory oversight and engagement by stakeholders

Banking institutions and controlling companies must demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Bank and other stakeholders that their remuneration policies are sound.

- a) Supervisory review of remuneration practices must be rigorous and sustained, and deficiencies must be addressed promptly with supervisory action.
- b) Banking institutions and controlling companies must disclose clear, comprehensive and timely information about their remuneration practices in the annual report to facilitate constructive engagement by all stakeholders.

16. Re-assessment of Fitness and Probity

Banking institutions and controlling companies should notify the Bank whenever the executive management or board of directors is reshuffled or reorganised, which results in persons previously assessed being assigned to new roles. The notification must be accompanied by a new application with all the supporting documents attached if the previous assessment was conducted more than two years ago.

17. Reporting Requirements

Banking institutions and controlling companies must report, within five working days, to the Bank when any director or principal officer resigns from their positions. Banking institutions and controlling companies must, if they become aware of any changes in the “fitness and probity” of any of their directors, executive officers or principal officer, report such changes and the details thereof to the Bank in writing within 10 working days of them becoming aware. Banking institutions must also submit form CM29 within 10 working days after the approval of the amendments to the form by the relevant authority, should there be a change in directorships in terms of resignations and/or new appointments.

PART IV: CORRECTIVE MEASURES

- 18. Corrective measures - If a banking institution or controlling company fails to comply with this Determination, the Bank may pursue any remedial measures as provided under the Act or any other measures the Bank may deem appropriate in the interest of prudent banking practices.

PART V: EFFECTIVE DATE

- 19. Effective date – This Determination shall become effective on the date of publication in the Government Gazette.
- 20. Repeal of BID-1 - This Determination repeals and replaces the Determinations on the Appointment, Duties and Responsibilities of Directors and Principal Officers of Banking Institutions (BID-1) published, as general notice No. 398, in the Government Gazette No. 7339 of 18 September 2020.
