(3) The registrar shall not grant any permission for the establishment of a building society unless he has satisfied himself that the establishment of such a society will be in the public interest.

(4) For the purposes of subsection (3) the registrar may require the persons intending to establish a building society to furnish him with such particulars and information as he may deem necessary and may require such persons or any of them to appear before him in person to furnish any further particulars or information that he may require.

Registration of societies

4. (1) An application for the registration of a building society shall be lodged with the registrar in the prescribed form as soon as practicable after the establishment of the society.

(2) The application shall be accompanied by two copies of the rules agreed to by the founders for the government of the society and signed by them and the intended secretary.

(5) (a) If the registrar decides that the society is not a building society, he shall decline to register the society.

(b) Where the registrar decides that the society is a building society, he shall, upon payment to him of the prescribed fee, and provided he is satisfied that the society's rules comply with the requirements of this Act and are financially sound, and that the methods of transacting the business of the society as laid down in the rules are not undesirable, and, that the requirements of section 8 have been complied with, register the society provisionally in terms of this Act as a building society, issue the society with a certificate of provisional registration and together with such certificate return one copy of the rules, with his approval and the date of such registration of the society endorsed thereon, to the intended secretary of the society.

(8) If at the expiry thereof the period of validity of a society's certificate of provisional registration is not extended or if after the expiry of the period of seven years referred to in subsection (6) the society is unable to satisfy the requirements for final registration, it shall forthwith cease to carry on the business of a building society and the board shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, arrange for the voluntary winding-up of the society.

(4) Any society which fails within sixty days of the date of a written direction from the registrar in terms of subsection (3) or within such further period as the registrar may in writing allow, or, in the case of a society which has within the said period or further period moved the court for an order setting aside the registrar's direction, within sixty days after a final decision upholding the registrar's direction, to change its name and to furnish the registrar with a suitable name to comply with such direction, shall be guilty of an offence.

(5) No society shall without the approval of the registrar, use or refer to itself by a name other than the name under which it is registered or an abbreviation thereof or a literal translation thereof into the other language mentioned in section 4(3), but nothing in this subsection contained shall be construed as prohibiting the use by any society in the registered name of which the expression "building society", "mutual", "bouvereniging" or "onderlinge" occurs, of a name which consists of its registered name modified by the substitution therein for the expression in question of the corresponding expression in the other language mentioned in section 4(3) as used in this Act.
