

CHILDREN

Child Care and Protection Act 3 of 2015

Summary: This Act (GG 5744) gives effect to the rights of children as contained in the Namibian Constitution and international agreements binding on Namibia. It sets out principles relating to the best interests of children. It reduces the age majority from 21 to 18, while providing that parental consent to marry is still required up to age 21. It establishes a National Advisory Council on Children, a Children's Advocate in the Office of the Ombudsman and a Children's Fund to finance cross-cutting issues. It covers the appointment and designation of social workers, social auxiliary workers, community child care workers and probation officers, and provides for the designation of private social workers and child protection organisations for certain purposes. It also provides for children's courts and for the registration of residential child care facilities, places of care and shelters.

It provides procedures for determining the parentage of a child. It also provides for the allocation of parental responsibilities and rights in respect of children born outside marriage and children of divorced parents. It provides mechanisms for custody and guardianship of children on the death of the person having custody or guardianship. (These parts of the Act closely resemble the provisions of the Children's Status Act 6 of 2006, which was repealed and re-enacted as part of this Act to bring all related procedures in the children's court under one legislative umbrella.)

The Act covers parenting plans between persons with parental responsibilities and provides for agreements in respect of the kinship care of children.

It authorises prevention and early intervention services in relation to children and provides measures relating to children in need of protective services. It redefines foster care. It provides for the issuing of contribution orders. It covers both domestic and inter-country adoption of children, and paves the way for Namibia to adopt several key Hague Conventions on children.

It provides for additional measures for the protection of children, including issues pertaining to certain forms of child labour and measures to combat baby-dumping. It requires certain persons to be in possession of police clearance certificates to ensure that they are not unfit to work with children.

It provides for grants payable in respect of certain children and creates some new offences relating to children.

It repeals the Children's Act 33 of 1960, the Age of Majority Act 57 of 1972, and the Children's Status Act 6 of 2006 and amends several other laws.

The Act was brought into force as of 30 January 2019 by GN 4/2019 (GG 6829).

Amendments: The Act is amended (to remove the provisions on child trafficking) by the Combating of Trafficking in Persons Act 1 of 2018 (GG 6562), which was brought into force on 14 November 2019 by GN 335/2019 (GG 7047).

Regulations: Section 258 contains a savings provision for regulations made in terms of the repealed laws. However, GN 5/2019 (GG 6829) repeals the Regulations Relating to Children's Status, published in GN 267/2008 (GG 4154) in terms of the Children's Status Act 6 of 2006, a number of specific regulations issued in terms of the Children's Act 33 of 1960 and any other regulations made under the Children's Act 33 of 1960 "in respect of any matter that is regulated by these regulations or by the Regulations Relating to Children's Court Proceedings published under Government Notice No. 6 of 30 January 2019." Thus, it appears unlikely that any regulations enacted under the repealed laws remain in force.

Child Care and Protection Regulations are issued in terms of this Act by GN 5/2019 (GG 6829).

Regulations Relating to Children's Court Proceedings are issued in terms of this Act by GN 6/2019 (GG 6829).

Notices: Section 258 contains a savings provision for notices and other actions done in terms of the repealed laws.

Cases:

The following cases pertain to the Children's Status Act 6 of 2006 –

Frans v Paschke & Others 2007 (2) NR 520 (HC) implicitly extended the applicability of section 16 on the inheritance rights of children born outside marriage, through section 26(2), by finding the common law rule that children born outside marriage may not inherit intestate from their fathers unconstitutional with effect from 21 March 1990.

NS v PS 2010 (2) NR 418 (HC) makes a passing mention of the Act, noting that section 5(1) allows for variation of a High Court custody order in the children's court "if circumstances have changed".

S v S 2011 (1) NR 144 (HC) suggests that the common-law concept of putative marriage should fall into disuse since the main purpose of the concept is to mitigate harshness to any children involved, now that "the Children's Status Act essentially puts children born out of wedlock on the same legal footing with children born in wedlock" (at 148B-C).

Jordaan v Jordaan (A 317/2012) [2012] NAHCMD 106 (11 December 2012), deals with an ex parte application for interim custody under the Act which was found to be outside the Act's criteria for such an order.

FN v SM 2012 (2) NR 709 (HC) overturned a decision not to confirm an interim protection order in terms of the Combating of Domestic Violence Act 4 of 2003, and issued a final protection order giving interim custody to the mother and access to the father; the Court made this final protection order for a duration of 12 months, to allow time for a custody proceeding under the Children's Status Act.

LNL v LJJ (I 2406/2013) [2014] NAHCMD 309 (17 October 2014) involved a dispute about the paternity of one child in divorce proceedings, on the basis that the wife had affairs. The High Court said that the Children's Status Act reiterates the common law presumption that a child born in wedlock is the child of the father married to the mother. It "assists a father of a child born in marriage only to this extent: If the mother refuses to subject a child to a paternity test, there is a presumption that she is seeking to conceal the truth concerning the parentage of that person". The Court held that the husband cannot demand paternity tests when he has not produced any evidence which contradicts the presumption that children born inside marriage are the children of the spouses.

JM & Another v SM 2016 (1) NR 27 (HC) concerned a request for an interim variation of a divorce order on custody, pending the outcome of a custody application under the Children's Status Act. It is not clear why the parties utilised two different forums. The case found that the High Court has very broad discretion to consider any relevant information.

Kriel v Kantak (A 268-2015) [2015] NAHCMD 242 (7 October 2015) involved a High Court application for interim custody of a child launched only three court days after a custody application was made in the children's court under the Children's Status

Act. The High Court refused to entertain the case on the grounds that this would be usurping the lower court's function. It noted that if the lower court is not acting, the appropriate remedy is mandamus.

The following cases pertain to the Children's Act 33 of 1960 –

Ex Parte Attorney-General, Namibia: In Re Corporal Punishment by Organs of State, 1991 NR 178 (SC) (references to whipping and corporal punishment in sections 32 and 92(1) unconstitutional)

S v Van der Bergh 2003 NR 69 (HC) (suggestion that youthful offender is a child in need of care as defined by this Act)

Detmold & Another v Minister of Health and Social Services & Others 2004 NR 174 (HC) (section 71(2)(f) declared unconstitutional and therefore invalid)

See also NS v RH 2011 (2) NR 486 (HC) at 526E-529B, which discusses in dicta the impact of Detmold in the absence of Namibia's accession to the Hague Convention on Inter-Country Adoption and the subsidiarity principle in Art 21(b) of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child incorporated into Namibian law by virtue of Art 144 of the Namibian Constitution.
